

TO CLOSE ARGUMENTS IN DYNAMITE TRIAL

EXPECTED THAT CASE WILL GO TO JURY LATE THIS AFTER-NOON.

MEN IN EVERY CITY

District Attorney Miller Names Men Who Acted in Various Labor Centers in a Dramatic Peroration.

Indianapolis, Dec. 26.—Nearing the close of his arguments District Attorney Miller charged "that all of the official of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Workers on trial here knowingly entered into this nefarious conspiracy."

"Attended by riots, assaults and even by attempts to kill, this great conspiracy against employees who refused to recognize the union grew until it reached the murder stage at Los Angeles," said the district attorney.

"At the head of the conspiracy was McNamara, but behind him was President Frank M. Ryan, directing the explosions from New York and other cities. On the Pacific coast were Olaf A. Treitman and Eugene A. Clancy directing the work of destruction in San Francisco and showing by their letters and movements that they had full knowledge of the Los Angeles explosion. At Salt Lake City was J. B. Munsel, alias Jack Bright, at New Orleans was Philip A. Cooley, clamoring that the dynamite campaign be carried to southern states, but disappointed because the men he had retained to do the work got frightened."

"At New York was Frank C. Webb who failed to take the witness stand here in his own behalf, and at Boston was Michael J. Young, a member of the local executive board who possibly pointed out the job to be blown up in New England and at Buffalo was John T. Butler, vice president."

"At Cleveland were the sluggers, Peter J. Smith and George Anderson carrying on a reign of terror there, and so throughout the length and breadth of this land there are national officials and Charles E. Everett of Racine expiring, and three members—George Wyllie of Morrisville, Frank A. Cannon and William MacLaren of Milwaukee—having resigned. The re-appointment of Hill and Everett is being urged in recognition of their work in developing the Wisconsin state fair. Both are prominent in agricultural affairs."

"Friends of Fred Babst of Oconomowoc, John Lefebvre of Milwaukee, and L. P. Martiny of Chippewa Falls are urging their candidacies. Babst operates a 7,000 acre farm in Vanhook county, is a member of the board of directors of the National Dairy show and of the International Livestock exposition. Lefebvre is president of the Griddle Dairy company, Milwaukee, and was once a dairyman. Martiny is president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association and a prominent stockman and farmers' institute conductor."

"It is expected the appointments will be made by the time of the annual meeting of the board, Feb. 6."

Because of the mass of evidence the jury must review and the fact that a separate verdict must be returned for each defendant, it is not believed results will be reported in less than twenty-four hours. All the verdicts must be reported at one time. District Attorney Miller today continued to the review to the jury Orville E. McManis's confession as a dynamiter."

It was understood at the opening of the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today that the cases of the forty union labor men accused of promoting the McNamara dynamite plot would go to the jury late this afternoon.

"These men against whom the prosecution ask you to return verdicts of guilty were the men who allowed J. J. McNamara $1,000 a month to carry on dynamiting and my which was enabled to send his brother to Los Angeles at the behest of Treitman and Clancy and with one infernal machine killed 21 persons," continued Mr. Miller. Clancy once was vice-president of the union. He was familiar with what was going on. On August 21, 1910, there was an explosion at Seattle and Clancy was there. Clancy was in Boston with M. J. Young when the Los Angeles explosion occurred, but he hurried back to San Francisco after telegraphing that evidence should be destroyed. "Clean house," he said."

FOUR PERSONS MEET DEATH IN A WRECK

Illinois Central Train Crashes Into Eddy of Party Returning From Christmas Festival.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 26.—The four members of the family of Edward H. Miller were killed early today by being struck by the Illinois Central Limited four miles south of Champaign. The dead were Edward H. Miller, 34 years old; Mrs. Maud Miller, 33 years old; Ruth Miller, 8 years old; Wayne Miller, 4 years old. Onal Scott the 11-year old child of a neighbor was fatally hurt. The Millers were driving home from a Christmas celebration at the home of a neighbor and were taking the Scott girl home.

TO DELAY NAMING PANAMA GOVERNOR

President Taft Will Wait Until He Returns to Washington Before Making Appointment.

Panama, Dec. 26.—President Taft has decided not to nominate the civil governor of the Panama canal zone of the subordinate officials until he returns to the United States. It is, however, generally considered probable that Col. G. W. Goethals will be appointed civil governor. Today's program included a visit by the president to the Culebra cut on the canal, and also an auto trip to the ruins of old Panama city which was sacked and burned in 1571 by the notorious buccannier, Henry Morgan, who was made a knight by King Charles II on his return to England. The presidential party will sail from Colon at 6 o'clock this evening on board the United States warship Arkansas and expect to reach Key West on Sunday. Col. Goethals will return to the United States at the same time on board the battleship Delaware.

Washington, Dec. 26.—It was understood before President Taft left Washington on his present visit to Panama that the only element of uncertainty in the appointing of Col. Goethals to be governor of the canal zone was the consent of that officer himself, the salary of the new office being $5,000 less than the compensation he is now receiving as head of the Canal commission. So anxious, however, has Col. Goethals been to crown his work of canal construction with the establishment of the permanent government which is to operate the great waterway and look after the small army of employees who will remain at the canal zone that he was well understood by his friends here that he was prepared to make this sacrifice.

FIVE APPOINTMENTS ARE UP TO GOVERNOR

New Members on State Board of Agriculture Must Be Named Before February Meeting.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—Within the next six weeks Governor McGovern will have the appointment of five members of the state board of agriculture the terms of Charles L. Hill of Rosendale and Charles E. Everett of Racine expiring, and three members—George Wyllie of Morrisville, Frank A. Cannon and William MacLaren of Milwaukee—having resigned. The re-appointment of Hill and Everett is being urged in recognition of their work in developing the Wisconsin state fair. Both are prominent in agricultural affairs."

Friends of Fred Babst of Oconomowoc, John Lefebvre of Milwaukee, and L. P. Martiny of Chippewa Falls are urging their candidacies. Babst operates a 7,000 acre farm in Vanhook county, is a member of the board of directors of the National Dairy show and of the International Livestock exposition. Lefebvre is president of the Griddle Dairy company, Milwaukee, and was once a dairyman. Martiny is president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association and a prominent stockman and farmers' institute conductor."

It is expected the appointments will be made by the time of the annual meeting of the board, Feb. 6."

SIMPLICITY TO MARK STATE INAUGURATION

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—Revised plans for the inauguration ceremonies for state officers call for a public reception to be held in the executive offices by Governor McGovern from 10 to 12 o'clock on Monday, January 6. The inaugural ceremonies will be held in the assembly chamber and will be simpler than ever, it is said. It is probable a reception will be held at the executive mansion in the evening, this taking the place of the inaugural ball, which will probably be abandoned. It is practically decided that William R. Bagley, a Madison attorney, will be chairman of the inaugural committee.

HAVE DISAGREEMENT WITH STATE PRINTER

Contract Price for Publication of Blue Book Causes a Controversy.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—Whether the next Blue Book should be printed under the 1913 contract rate, or under the 1912 basis, which will mean a saving of almost $5,000 to the state, is involved in the request by Secretary of State Frear for an opinion from Attorney General Bancroft. The company holding the state printing contract insists that the printing of the annual should be paid for under the rates of the contract beginning Jan. 1, 1913, notwithstanding the delivery of the order and data has already been furnished the state printer.

Writing the attorney general for an official opinion, Secretary Frear said: "The basis for this contention (by the state printer) lies in the fact that under the law such order is not to be issued to the state printer not later than January 30 and delivery required prior to July 15. The important question to the state printer as well as to the state is that the 1913 contract rates were approximately 43 per cent higher than under the 1912 contract, and the state printer desires to secure the increased price for printing the Blue Book. An estimate of comparative prices for printing the 1911 Blue Book under these two contract rates will show the reason for the condition. Under the 1911 rate the Blue Book printing cost $23,715.45. If the same book was printed under the 1913 rate, it would amount to $21,663.82, or a difference of $2,051.63."

"Should a precedent govern in the interpretation of contracts between the present state printer and the state, it will be found that 38,000 copies of the 1903 Blue Book were printed under the contract rates for 1902 at 16 cents per token, and the remaining 7,300 copies were ordered under the 1903 contract at the rate of 15 cents per token, or slightly over one-third of the rates charged under the new contract. From the present contention of the state printer, $5,800 copies should have been printed at the 1902 rate of 16 cents, instead of at the 1903 rate provided by the contract for 1903."

"A special effort has been made to give all the proof to the state printer before the end of this year in order that the state might take advantage of the old contract rates, and I have advised the state printer that unless your opinion is to the contrary, the payment for the Blue Book will be made under the 1912 contract, which saves to the state nearly $8,000 on this item of Blue Book printing."

Secretary Frear pointed out in his letter that deductions on the state printer's bills made by the auditing department of the secretary of state's office have amounted to $8,194.89 from July 1, 1911, to date.

"The question has been presented," he added, "whether or not it is proper arbitrarily to make deductions from the face of bills presented to the department or whether the correct procedure would be to return such bills for the state printer, and insist that they be presented for the right amounts as determined by this office before such audit is made."

OLD LABOR FEUD IS BLAMED FOR MURDER

Official of Chicago Steamfitters' Union Shot Down by Fellow Workman Today.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—James Noway an official of the United Steamfitters and Helpers Union Local No. 520 was shot and killed today by Thomas Siro, secretary of the organization, in a quarrel growing out of an election of officers held a week ago which led to a dispute over the possession of an auto owned by the union. It is said to have caused the shooting. The police say that the killing was the outgrowth of a factional dispute among union labor leaders for five years standing and that the same feud led to the murder of Vincent Altman in the bar of a downtown hotel two years ago. For this murder Maurice Enright, slugger and gunman was sent to Joliet penitentiary for life. A few months later William, alias "Dutch" Gaslamian was shot to death as a result of the same factional war according to the police.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR FAVORS SCHOOL DANCES.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—The Cincinnati plan of opening the public school buildings weekly for school dances is heartily commended by Prof. M. V. O'Shea, the University of Wisconsin pedagogical authority.

"It is apparent that American youth will dance anyway, by hook or crook," he says, "and the best thing to do for them is to provide them with wholesome environment as possible, and to preserve as much of the chivalrous spirit between the sexes as can be done. In the ordinary dance hall it is difficult for boys and girls to maintain a certain wholesome and useful reserve in one another's presence. The finest moral tonic a boy can have, and the greatest stimulus to proper endeavor, is a chivalrous attitude toward the opposite sex."

The plan he endorses provides that teachers shall act as chaperones.

Dominion Checker Tourney. Toronto, Ont., Dec. 26.—Expert checker players from many points throughout Canada assembled at the rooms of the Toronto Checker Club today for the opening of the annual Dominion championship tournament. Three hundred dollars in cash prizes will be divided among the winners of the tournament.

COMMISSION TO FIX THE MINIMUM WAGE

According to Bill Which Will Undoubtedly be Introduced at Coming Session of Legislature.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—The minimum wage measure will appear in a new form at the coming session of the Wisconsin legislature. Instead of fixing a flat rate of wages to be paid to women workers as was proposed at the last session, authority will probably be given, by the proposed bill, to the state industrial commission to increase the wages upon investigation. When women employees feel they are not being paid a living wage, they may apply to the commission for an investigation and an adjustment of pay.

The law applying to persons working as apprentices in shops at approved rates will be remodeled so that these workers will be compelled to attend a continuation school for a fixed number of hours per day. While the minimum wage law has been tried in other states and foreign countries, it will require careful framing of the bill to meet the legislative objection, here.

"The great department-house of Filene Brothers in Boston starts all of its women and girl employees at $7 a week, notwithstanding the fact that other houses and other employers can secure help at a much lower figure," said Prof. John R. Commons of the state industrial commission. "The company does this partly on the ground that it gives more efficient help and partly on the ground that they do not think a self-supporting woman can live in Boston on less than $7 a week."

"Investigations made in Milwaukee show that the cost of living would require a higher wage than $3.50, at which many girls begin work. Massachusetts has adopted a minimum wage law to go into effect in July, 1913, which, however, is not compulsory. Its effect is expected to be secured merely by the publication of the wages paid by different employers."

"This question of the minimum wage especially for women, is now recognized as one of great public interest and public policy. It is necessary in Wisconsin as well as it is in Massachusetts, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and other states which are proposing legislation of this character during the coming winter."

"The proposition is indeed new to our laws and constitution, and also involves more difficult problems of administration than any class of labor legislation hitherto placed on the statute books. For this reason, legislation should be worked out most carefully and cautiously, having in view however, the necessity and public importance of taking steps in this direction in the occupations where they are most needed."

GIVES OPPORTUNITY OF VOTING BY MAIL

Latest Proposal in Election Laws Will Leave Stay-at-Homes No Excuse For Failing to Vote.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—An opportunity to vote by mail is one of the unique amendments which it is proposed to make to the election laws at this session of the legislature. The measure will be urged primarily by the traveling men of Wisconsin many of whom lose their vote every year because of their absence from the state on business at election time. At least one other state has a law of this character.

The absent voting measure will be made to include a citizen of Wisconsin who may be absent in any other part of the United States by having a special absentee ballot ready for voters the hands of the village or city clerk. The absent voter can either by personal or written application through the village clerk or by mail apply for such a ballot and vote that ballot in the presence of any officer eligible to take an affidavit. Such a ballot will be enclosed in a sealed envelope by the one enclosing it and inserted into an outside envelope upon one side of which is provided a space for an affidavit of the person casting the ballot. The other side will be for the address of the village clerk of his home precinct.

According to the proposed measure, all such ballots received by the city or village clerk are to be turned over by him to the election officers of the proper precinct at the time that the official ballots are turned over to such officers. The election officers are to judge the legality of the ballot by the affidavit on the outside of the envelope.

"This would permit a Wisconsin citizen temporarily located in California, for example, to write to the clerk of his municipality by mail. This extends the privilege of the proposed act to include Wisconsin citizens absent in all parts of the United States and will probably be an improvement upon the formerly proposed method of applying for a ballot in the municipality in which he finds himself, as in this case they can only get the ballots from the clerk of their home municipality."

EDWARD P. VILAS IS DEAD IN MILWAUKEE

Brother of Former Postmaster General Dies as Result of a Sad Accident.

Milwaukee, Dec. 26.—Edward P. Vilas, 60 years of age, a well known lawyer and brother of the late former postmaster general, William F. Vilas, died today from injuries sustained from falling down stairs at his home last night when his neck was broken. What caused his neck to be broken at that time it occurred could not be ascertained as Mr. Vilas was alone in the house with the exception of servants who were in the rear and did not hear the noise of the falling body.

Mrs. Vilas and her sister, Miss Mary L. Atwood, discovered the unconscious form at the foot of the stairs when they returned from a visit to Evanston late in the night. They immediately summoned medical aid, but Mr. Vilas never regained consciousness. It is thought that Mr. Vilas fell but a short time before Mrs. Vilas and her sister arrived. Charles Atwood Vilas, son of the deceased, was notified and is hurrying to Milwaukee from his home in Chicago.

WILSON'S CONDITION IS MUCH IMPROVED

President-elect Decides to Remain in Room During Day to Safeguard His Health.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 26.—More as a precaution than as a consequence of his slight illness, President-elect Wilson decided to stay in his room today. He had his appointments transferred from the state house to his home. The governor had been fighting what he thought was a mere cold since Monday, but he learned today from his physician, Dr. James Carnochan, that he had met and conquered a second attack of grippe. The governor spent a restless night and said he felt much better today. Nevertheless, he took his physician's advice about staying in doors. The doctor pronounced Mr. Wilson well enough, however, to make the trip to Staunton, Va.

Dr. Carnochan shortly before noon pronounced the governor's condition "very much improved." However, he prescribed as a diet today only broth and eggs and suggested that the governor rest as much as possible. All engagements therefore except the one with Representative Glass were set for a day next week and the governor sat up in bed reading letters and newspapers.

KELLOGG BREAKFAST FOOD CONCERN MADE DEFENDANT IN SUIT

Anti-Trust Suit Brought Against Manufacturers of Corn Flakes and Cereal Products.

Detroit, Dec. 26.—The Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Company is alleged to be violating the Sherman law, in a petition in equity, filed in the United States district court here today by order of Attorney General Wickham to settle for all time the extent to which a manufacturer may control retail prices. The company and its officers engaged in the manufacture of Kellogg's toasted corn flakes, are charged with fixing prices at which the flakes are sold to retailer and consumer, preventing competition which would reduce the price to the public, and creating a monopoly by concentrating all interstate commerce in this commodity in the hands of jobbers and retailers who abide by price agreements exacted by the defendants. It is alleged that the defendants have invoked the patent laws through the use of a patented carton in which the flakes are packed as a "mere subterfuge and device" to escape the provisions of the Sherman law. The government asks for injunctions to prevent the company's officers and agents from controlling the price of the breakfast food after it leaves the hands of the hands of the manufacturer.

The following are named as defendants: Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Company and Will K. Kellogg, Wilfred C. Kellogg and Andrew Ross, respectively president, secretary and general manager of the company, all of Battle Creek, Mich.

The petition, filed by United States Attorney Clyde J. Webster, was drawn by James A. Fowler, special assistant to the attorney general, and is regarded by the government as of vast importance because of its bearing upon the right of a manufacturer to control prices to the consumer. It is alleged that the company sells only to jobbers, refusing absolutely to deal directly with consumers or with the retail trade. The commodity, according to the petition, is sold to jobbers as a uniform price under an agreement that the jobbers will sell to retailers at a price fixed by the defendants. The defendants are charged with strictly enforcing the agreement of sale by absolutely refusing to deal with any jobber who fails to maintain the specified price.

By the use of a patented carton, the defendants are alleged to control the price at which retailers sell to consumers. It is pointed out that a notice signed by the Kellogg Corn Flake Company is printed on a flap of the carton in which the flakes are packed, stating that the package and its contents are sold conditionally with the distinct understanding that they will not be retailed at less than ten cents per package. For selling at less than that price, the vendor is warned by the notice that he is liable to prosecution as an infringer of patent rights.

The government insists that the patented carton can afford no protection in attempting to fix re-sale prices to retailers, because it is alleged the carton was not in fact patented as all of its material features had long been in use before the patent was issued; the value of the carton is negligible, the contents alone being desired by the purchaser; the defendants having sold the cartons and contents to jobbers have parted with all title to the commodities and have no legal right to fix prices at which the retailers purchase from the jobber shall be required to sell; and lastly "its use is resorted to as a mere subterfuge and device to avoid the provisions" of the anti-trust law and the principles of the common law controlling such contracts.

The agreements, exacted from jobbers and the conditions of sale imposed upon and accepted by the retailers, constitute a combination to restrain the interstate commerce in this breakfast food in that they prevent it from proving in interstate commerce at prices other than those fixed by the defendant company and prevent all competition between dealers which can affect its cost to the retailer or consumer. "They produce," it is added, "a monopoly of said interstate commerce in the hands of those who abide by the terms of said agreements and conditions of sale the entire traffic in said article and exclude therefrom all dealers who choose to enter into or abide by said agreements and conditions."

STILL SOME DELAY IN PEACE OVERTURE

ENVOYS IN LONDON STOP PROCEEDINGS TO DISCUSS DETAILS OF PACT.

PLANS NOT COMPLETED

However Expected There Will Be Peaceful Solution of Present Difficulties Shortly.

London, Eng., Dec. 26.—The possession of the Turkish fortress at Adrianople which has been the principle bone of contention since the beginning of the war between Turkey and the Balkan allies, still remains at this moment the real stumbling block in the way of peace. Compensation for Bulgaria, however, in some other part of European Turkey, probably will, in the end, remove even this difficulty and enable her to consent to the retention by Turkey of the great fortress which the allied troops have been unable to subdue.

Saloniki has been suggested as a possible base to induce the Bulgarians to abandon their claims to the northern city, which the Turks refuse to yield. Perhaps with some such idea in their minds the Turkish delegates have, it is reported, included in the counter proposals they have offered to the peace conference the stipulation that Saloniki shall remain in their hands, a line being drawn from that southern port through Serres and Adrianople to Mada.

The maximum demands of the Balkan allies and the minimum offer of the peace delegates, when they assemble again in St. James palace on Saturday and a definite basis for bargaining will doubtless consent to limit their demands to a western boundary running from Adrianople southward along the railway to Enos on the Aegean sea, that leaving the Dardanelles straits in their hands.

Diplomatic circles here consider there is certain to be a gradual approximation of the excessive terms put forward by the Balkan allies and the Turks and when that stage has been reached third parties may have a chance to intervene in order to reconcile the remaining differences between the adversaries.

TAFT NOT A TARGET IN BOMB EXPLOSION

President's Visit to Panama Had Nothing to Do With Disturbance Reported Last Night.

Washington, Dec. 26.—An explosion in the park opposite the Hotel Tiivolo, which occurred at midnight, has not been attended a dance given in his honor at the national theatre at Panama last night, is reported in dispatches to the Panama legation here today to have been the outgrowth of business rivalry between two merchants in the vicinity. The dispatches say the explosion occurred outside the district traversed by President Taft which was guarded by a line of police from the station to the National theatre. "While President Taft was at a dance an explosion occurred at Delosse Plaza in front of the Hotel Tiivolo, and saw up the news stand at the legation," says the dispatch to the legation. "The cause of the explosion is believed to have been jealousy and revenge between two Spanish rivals in business. Mr. Valdez gave out at the legation here today official reports from his government, stating that the minister of foreign affairs had reported the matter to President Taft, who was convinced that the explosion had been in no way connected with his presence in the city."

COOPER IS PLEASED AT RIVER PROJECT

Congressman Has Been Making Investigations in Regard to River Improvements—Writes to Parker.

George S. Parker, who has been very much interested in the matter of the improvement of Rock river as a part of the Great Lakes to Gulf waterways scheme, has received a letter from Congressman Henry Allen Cooper in regard to the present status of the Rock river project. Mr. Cooper's letter, which is self-explanatory, shows that he favors the proposed plan, and has written, following a request by Mr. Parker, that he make an investigation in regard to the present standing of the local project at Washington. The congressman writes:

Geo. S. Parker,
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Mr. Parker: I have just come from the War Department where I went to learn the status of the Rock river survey. Records were consulted and I was informed that the field work was all completed on the 16th of last month, and that the notes were now being written up, etc. Just how long this work of writing up would take, the official did not know, but thought not a great while. I, of course, did not inquire as to what the report would show or recommend, but as I before wrote you, there is excellent reason to believe that it will be favorable. A casual remark dropped by one of the gentlemen this morning confirms my impression that this is true. I sincerely hope that it will prove to be the case for it seems to me certain, beyond any doubt, that the putting of Janesville, Beloit and other Rock river towns, in direct water communication with Chicago for heavy freight will be of inestimable benefit to them and the country tributary. I have more than once urged these considerations upon the engineering bureau.

In Rock river has always not only seemed feasible but very advisable. Besides the slack water navigation there is possibility of power development. Electric power is now transmitted 150 to 200 miles from the plant. Coal, lumber, and other heavy freight carried by water from and to Chicago would mean a great deal to the manufacturers along the river.

FAMILY REUNION ON GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lanphere of Milton Entertain on Day Before Christmas.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Dec. 26.—Fifty years ago Tuesday, December 26, George W. Lanphere and Frances Mason were united in marriage at Ballyva, N. Y. George was the oldest of twelve children in the Lanphere household at Beltrun, Pa. Miss Mason taught the district school, which was attended by a number of Mr. Lanphere's younger brothers and sisters. Their courtship and engagement followed. The rest of the family seem to have been much pleased with the match, for when the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding arrived this week, every living member of the family was present to give loving congratulations. The list included Mrs. R. A. Cooper of Cayuga, N. D.; Winfield Lanphere of Beltrun, Pa.; Frank Lanphere of Ceres, N. Y.; and Mrs. Nellie Eckert of Shinglehouse, Pa. Other members of the family circle from a distance were Milo S. Eckert (the husband of Nellie), Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pierson of Hecla, S. D., and Leon Lanphere of Ledden, N. D. At the very pleasant celebration Tuesday afternoon all these were present, together with the families of Mr. Lanphere's sons and an invited company of friends. It must be said that the deacon and his worthy wife made a good looking couple, and bore their blushing honors in a manner worthy of the occasion.

Magician at Milton.

A good natured crowd congregated in the college auditorium Saturday night to listen to an evening of magic, mystery and music by Joseph, a magician of considerable note, and an originator of high rank in his profession. His delusions, especially in Part III of the program, were truly wonderful, his "talking skull" and "Japonette" act were especially praiseworthy. Joseph and his magic will be the talk of the small boy for some time to come; he clearly demonstrated that he is a necromancer of great skill and his violin solos were a pleasing and popular feature of the evening's entertainment. This was the first number of a lecture course to be given this winter under the auspices of the Milton Union high school for the benefit of "The Golden Arrow," its annual year book. The remaining numbers of the course are the Otterbein male quartet and bell ringers; Miss Adah Johnson, reader and impersonator; the Rev. L. C. Randolph, lecturer; and the Jones Concert company—all high class entertainments.

Milton Locals.

Christmas week proved one of the best ever for Milton business men and the postoffice transactions on Monday were the largest in its history, the stamp sales being over $75, and up to Tuesday night post cards sent out aggregated nearly five thousand. On Monday the bank did a rushing business; cashed two hundred and seventy odd local checks. The Christmas exercises at the various churches were excellent and largely attended and the day was bright and comfortable.

Dr. Welch of Janesville has been in town twice this week.

Agent S. B. Davy has been the victim of attack of double pneumonia this week and is yet in a critical condition.

Rogers, White-water; Miss Della Plumb, Sheboygan Falls; R. W. Clarke and family, Janesville; Sanford Hurd, Clear Lake, Iowa; Casper and Ralph Pfeiffer, Messrs. Serl and Wetmore and their families, Avalon; Miss Emma Rogers, Battle Creek, Mich.; H. S. Bullis, Milwaukee; Dr. F. C. Binnewies and wife, Janesville.

Dr. G. E. Crosley went to Chicago this morning for the day.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS CAN ENTER CONTEST

Essay Contest on Perry's Victory at Lake Erie is Offered by Centennial Committee.

Here is an opportunity for pupils in the Janesville high school to compete in the contest for the best essay by a student of a high school or equivalent school in each of the eleven congressional districts of the state, on a topic connected with the war of 1812, the Wisconsin Perry's Victory Centennial Commission will award a gold medal valued at twenty-five dollars. For the best essay of the eleven winning essays there will be awarded an additional prize of fifty dollars in cash; for the second best, thirty dollars; and for the third best, twenty dollars. A bronze medal will be awarded to that contestant in each high school or equivalent school whose essay wins out in the school and is forwarded to the commission. Essays must be submitted prior to April 1, 1913.

Each high school or equivalent school in which a student wins one of the gold medals will be awarded a large facsimile of Perry's battle flag, which has spread on it the motto "Don't give up the ship!"

School Exercises.

There will be awarded to each county in which at least 50 per cent of the rural and state graded schools give a suitable Perry's Victory Centennial program before May 15, 1913, a Perry battle flag to be used, under the direction of the county superintendent, as a trophy to be held by the schools winning out in such contests as the superintendent may from year to year arrange. Similarly, a flag will be awarded to cities employing fifty or more teachers, in which at least 75 per cent of the grammar schools give such programs.

A complete explanation of these contests will soon be mailed to superintendents and principals from the office of State Superintendent C. P. Cary. The Wisconsin Memorial Day Annual, which is due to be sent out in January, will also give full particulars, together with a suggestive program and some material for use in preparing for the occasion.

Poem.

Any student eligible to enter the essay competition may submit a poem on the Battle of Lake Erie or an incident thereof, and if any such production is deemed to be of sufficient merit, a suitable award will be made to the author by the Commission.

The Commission will be ready soon to announce a second competition for the colleges and normal schools of the state.

For further information address Wisconsin Perry's Victory Centennial Commission, Federal Bld., Milwaukee.

LITTLE OR NOTHING SECURED BY THE MURDER OF LOGUE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Dec. 26.—Police officials are convinced that little if anything was stolen from the safe of Joseph H. Logue, the diamond dealer, who was shot and stabbed to death in his office last Friday. An inventory of the contents of the safe was taken by the police today. Police Captain Halpin says Logue was "not prosperous" in business of late and owed eight months' office rent at the time of his murder.

While Luther McCarty's recent victory over Jim Flynn makes him only a sort of minor league champ, still the chances are fair of his graduating into the majors later on. Luther hasn't licked enough good men yet to make him very big league, but he's young and willing and a good punch that promises a good deal. Certainly he stands as high as any of the whites hopes. His fight with Al Palmer on New Year's day will be watched with unusual interest.

In the meantime Carl Morris still sticks around. His recent easy victory over Bob Williams of New York shows that he isn't a dead one yet, by any means.

MONROE DEFEATED IN FAST CONTEST

Local Y. M. C. A. Basketball Five Wipe Out Their Green County Rivals.

In one of the most exciting games ever staged on the Monroe army floor, occurred last night, when the local Y. M. C. A. boys defeated their rivals, the Monroe Cardinals, in a fast and hard game by the score of 14 to 12. From the very start, it could be seen that the locals would return victors, as their fast floor work and basketball shooting was a feature. Wilson starred for the locals, caging three baskets over Collantine, the clever guard from the Cheese city, and who played the whole game for

Monroe. The floor was somewhat slippery and caused much excitement at times resembling a football game with several on the floor at a time. The game as a whole was one in which fine guarding was noticeable, as few attempts at the basket were prevalent. The "Y" boys are happy over their first victory of the season and hope to start the year with a string of victories. The line-up was as follows:

Monroe Cardinals: Haren, Gibbons and Tullie, forwards; Blumer, center; Collentine and Kunder, guards. Y. M. C. A.: Wilson and Spooner, forwards; Cunningham and Wilkinson, center; Brown, Mott and Porter, guards.

Baskets: Wilson (3), Spooner (4), Collentine (2), Gibbons (2), Blumer (2).

THE UNIVERSAL GOAT.

A prominent banker, in the middle West, recently was called upon by one of his best customers, who was also a large shipper. He wanted an extension of his notes. "You see," he said, "we can't ship our grain because it is impossible to get cars. The railroads are all tied up with a big car shortage, and it will probably be a couple of months before I can get my grain out, and take up these notes."

"The banker, however, happened to be well informed on the car situation; for the president of the railroad, which served this shipper, was a friend of his and had been in, but the day before and stated that they were having no trouble supplying the demand for cars."

"After listening to the customer's excuses the banker suggested that he sit right down at his desk and write a complaint to the railroad president."

"After much stalling the customer finally refused to write such a letter."

"Then the truth came out. It was not because of any lack of cars that the shipper wanted an extension of time, but because he wanted to hold his grain for a better price."

"The railroad is made the goat for many things for which it is not responsible. There is a tendency, all through the west to hold crops for better prices, and the banker referred to is only one of a multitude of creditors, compelled to wait for their money. The coal shortage is largely due to the greed of speculators, and not to a car shortage."

JANUARY DIVIDENDS.

The city of New York is headquarters for so many railroads and large corporations that more money is disbursed in dividends than in any other city in the land. January is the dividend month and the following paragraph from a financial letter shows the amount of money to be paid out.

"The January disbursements this year will reach about $250,000,000, a much larger sum than last year owing to the increase in security issues and to the increase in a number of individual dividends. With less tension in the money market at home and abroad, with low prices and with the January investment demand close at hand the immediate outlook of the market has decidedly improved. Another favorable factor is the record-breaking foreign trade returns for November, imports reaching $153,000,000 and exports $277,000,000. This enormous excess in exports was due to large shipments of cotton and grain, and was reached in spite of a loss in meat exports. This strengthens our financial status abroad; and gold imports might have been possible were it not for the continued financial strain abroad, intensified by the war following a period of unusual trade expansion in Europe. Heavy loans estimated at over $300,000,000 are likely to be soon put out as a result of the Balkan war. The latter, however, is practically over, and this is a relief. While there is no occasion as yet for too prompt a resumption of excessive optimism, still the fact that conditions have improved somewhat this week and that the late decline discounts many drawbacks warrants an increased hopeful disposition over a week ago."

WORST VOTE OF ALL.

Take the figures for all the elections since and including 1896 and it is perfectly clear that the stay-at-home vote has been pretty steadily increasing. It has increased faster than the socialist vote. It is less creditable than the socialist vote. On the whole, it is more ominous than the socialist vote. A socialist may be merely a mistaken patriot. The stay-at-home gentry cannot lay claim to any patriotism at all. Socialism is at worst a disease of the body politic. Indifference is a chilling of the very soul of democracy.—Harper's Weekly.

When the fact is considered that less votes were cast in the presidential election this year, than were cast four years ago, the above criticism will be appreciated. The indifferent voter is a menace to any community. He enjoys all the rights of citizenship, yet shirks all responsibility, and is usually a kicker. Among the new reform bills to be presented at Madison this winter, is a bill providing that voters be compelled to vote. The proposition is a good one.

Geneva Lake has long been known as a Chicago resort, and the shore line is so completely controlled that the public has long since discovered that it was invited to stay away. The property-owners of this secluded spot are now shocked to learn that Jack Johnson and his colored friends propose to open a club house, dedicated to Johnson's latest wife. The scheme was suggested by a Chicago lawyer and real estate man, who evidently had an eye to business. The hotels around the lake, have been persuaded to retire, and the Johnson outfit will doubtless find it to their interests to do the same.

The long drawn-out dynamite trial, which has been in progress at Indianapolis, for the past two months, is drawing to a close, and the case will probably go to the jury tomorrow. Forty-five men are under judgment, on twenty-six separate counts, and a verdict must be rendered in each individual case. The jury is likely to be busy for some time to come. The government is the prosecutor and it is to be hoped that no guilty man will escape. The conspiracy unearthed is far reaching, and many prominent labor leaders are involved.

Whether the recall petition is effective, or thrown out because of gross irregularities, the issue is as dead as it would be the day after election. There is no longer a feeling of uncertainty, as to results, as the most skeptical are convinced that law and order are necessary to the city's well-being.

There ought to be some way to locate the responsibility for the mix-up on the recall petitions. The men who signed it under misapprehension, are certainly entitled to an explanation, and there are some features which the general public ought to know more about.

The Associated Charities found some needy homes, where modesty was slow to reveal actual conditions, but the Christmas spirit relieved embarrassment and want was dispelled.

The good fellows of Chicago, and the good fellows all over the country are happy today because of the good cheer which they brought to many homes on Christmas eve.

The Salvation Army was a liberal dispenser to the needy yesterday. A good Christmas dinner may not last very long, but it's awfully good when it comes as a surprise.

Did you have a merry Christmas?

FEARED BROTHER HAD MADE AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

Sister of Benjamin Shallock, Feared Man Had Carried Out Threats To End His Life.

Fearing that her brother, Benjamin Shallock, had attempted suicide, a sister of the man this morning sought Chief of Police Appleby and Dr. G. C. Waude to make an investigation of the case. The chief and the physician went to the Shallock home at 108 Pleasant street, and found the man lying under the bed, where he had evidently crawled. The body was stiff when found by the doctor and the chief, and it was feared that the man might be suffering from strychnine poisoning. An examination, however, failed to reveal the usual signs of strychnine poisoning, and it is unknown whether the fit was caused by strychnine or alcoholic poisoning. Shallock is said to have made threats to commit suicide, and considerable anxiety was felt for him. A hypodermic injection was given him by the physician, and he was reported as recovering. The man is said to have shown signs of having had convulsions.

DELAY GRANTING LICENSE TO A PLUMBING COMPANY.

Foreman of Chicago Company Requested to Appear Before Council to Talk Things Over.

At the meeting of the common council late Tuesday afternoon, City Clerk Hammarlund was instructed to write a letter to the foreman of the P. Nacey company of Chicago, which sought a plumbers' license for one year, instructing him to come to the city hall to discuss matters pertaining to the license with the councilmen before beginning excavation work. The Chicago company asked for a license to excavate the street to connect with sewers on Terrace and Washington streets. Before granting the license, however, the council asked that the foreman name where the excavations are to be made. The bonds of the company will probably be approved at some future meeting of the council, and the license granted. The city clerk was also instructed to order dies for 1913 for the use of the city sealer of weights and measures, Walter Helms.

John C. Nichols Announces They Will Secure. Requisite Number of Names to Call Special Election.

"We stand ready to secure the required number of names to validate a call for a special election if there is any question as to our having secured a sufficient number of signatures on the petitions, now on file."

This was the statement of John C. Nichols this afternoon, candidate for mayor on the ticket to be nominated by the recall element, in answer to the question whether the new recall petitions were being circulated or not.

Mr. Nichols continued: "In passing lists for signatures as was recently done, there are always sure to be some errors. These we shall remedy as soon as possible if it takes all the year to do so. There has been so much talk on this question that I believe it should be questioned one way or the other as soon as possible."

Mr. Nichols' statement was made in response to an inquiry as to the taking out of ten extra recall petitions Tuesday, by those interested in the movement. Mr. Nichols also stated that there was a list of signatures in reserve not yet on file. This it is understood is made up of the retail liquor dealers who favor the project and others.

Work of checking up and verifying the petitions for the recall was continued today by City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund and the stenographer who is assisting him, and by tomorrow, it is expected, the entire list, including the signatures of the circulators and the names of the signers will have been verified. A report of the findings of the city clerk will be verified to the council on Saturday being the last day on which the petitions may be presented to the council, according to the law.

TOBACCO MEN FACE SCARCITY OF HELP; COMPLAINT GENERAL

Two or Three Hundreds Hands Are Needed at Once in Local Warehouses Say the Dealers.

As local tobacco dealers are about to open one of the most promising packing seasons in many years they are face to face with a shortage of help which is fast growing serious. Although nearly all the warehouses have opened for the season's sorting operations the forces are generally much smaller, than are usually employed and all efforts to secure more hands have thus far met with poor success.

Farmers all over the state have taken down their crops during the excellent casing weather of the present month and stripping is easily fifty per cent finished. Many are anxious to deliver at once but most of the warehouses are now filled with the bundle goods and no more can be received until what is now on hand can be sorted and packed.

With the present small forces the work is progressing slowly. Dealers who planned to run as many as forty or fifty sorters beginning this week and next are unable to secure help and are working with the original forces of fifteen and twenty hands.

While it is stated that the Bergsterman murder case has had its effect in bringing about the present situation as farmers refuse to allow their daughters to come here to work, little cognizance is taken of the fact that the city has been cleaned up remarkably within the past several months. One tobacco dealer stated that some reassurance should be given out as to existing moral conditions in Janesville as the situation at present is the best in years.

IS INCENDIARY AT WORK IN THE CITY?

ELAZE, LAST NIGHT CALLS FOR RIGID INVESTIGATION.

VERY MYSTERIOUS FIRE

Fire Marshal Will Send Deputy Here to Gather Evidence and Make a Report.

Are incendiaries at work in the city of Janesville, setting fire to buildings and endangering business property worth thousands of dollars?
That is what it is hoped will be discovered as the result of an investigation to be made by the state fire marshal's office at Madison, to whom a report of the first last night which broke out in the harness shop of Frank Sadler, 13 Court street, damaged the building and contents to the extent of from fifteen hundred to two thousand dollars, and threatened the row of frame buildings extending from Court street bridge to the alley at the side of Nelson Bros., undertaking rooms and livery.

A report of the fire was made to the fire marshal's department this morning by Chief of Fire Department H. C. Klein, who was informed that an investigator would be sent here by the department.
The fire last night was the third within a month in which there have been indications of incendiaryism, the other two being those in the Bostwick building, almost directly across from the Sadler shop, and in the tobacco warehouse of T. E. Welsh on West Milwaukee street.

The fire was discovered about 12:15 o'clock this morning, the flames leaping up on the outside at the rear of the shop. The outer wall was burned through and the flames spread rapidly on the interior of the building, which is a frame structure, the oil and grease on the floors and work benches giving it additional strength. Volumes of smoke and flame arose from the fire, which was visible for some distance, and every building in the row was soon filled with heavy clouds of smoke. Several cans of harness oil, tipped over by streams of water, made the fire burn fiercer.

An alarm of fire was sent in from box 51, followed shortly afterward by the "ten stroke," ten taps on the bell, meaning a bad fire or danger of a bad fire, to call out all of the fire police.

Four lines of hose were laid by the department and four powerful streams were poured in on the flames, but the blaze was a stubborn one, and the burning oil was hard to extinguish.

The smoke clouds were so dense that the hosemen working from the rear had to lay flat to get underneath the smoke and be able to see to direct the stream of water. Several of the firemen had to leave their places to come outside for fresh air, and a few of the men received slight cuts on their hands from pieces of glass. The fire was extinguished in about thirty-five minutes.

The horses in the Nelson livery barn, and one carriage were removed before the smoke became too dense for the men to enter the barn, and the horse of W. T. Flaherty was taken out, but the fire was prevented from spreading and the two buildings were undamaged. The carpenter shop of T. L. Mason, adjoining the harness shop, was soaked with water, and goods in the plumbing shop of C. E. Cochrane were blackened with smoke, with some loss. The furniture in the office of J. V. Conrad was scorched and slightly damaged.

The loss on the building, on which there was no insurance, is estimated at four to five hundred dollars. The stock was valued at two thousand dollars, but quite a heavy loss was suffered on the contents. The machinery was badly damaged, sets of harness and materials destroyed, and other sets badly scorched. Only a small portion of the stock escaped with slight damage. The stock is said to have been insured for about seven hundred dollars.

Hot Ashes Cause Blaze.
Hot ashes in a pile stored in a wooden basket caused a blaze on the lower landing of the cellar stairs at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saxby on Pearl street Tuesday night about 9:50. The fire department was called and put out the blaze with buckets of water. The debris was thrown out of doors to prevent further danger. The damage from smoke was slight.

"SUNKIST" ORANGES ARE NOT HARMFUL

Simply Trade Name for Certain Brand of California Fruit Not to Be Confused With General Term.

A word of explanation is due to a brand of California oranges, familiarly known in Janesville as "Sun-Kist," on account of the recent seizure of several carloads of oranges by Judge Landis in Chicago. California is known as a "Sun-Kissed" climate, and this name is adopted by a fruit growers' association under the style of "Sun-Kist." This fruit which has been coming to the local market for the past three years, is of the best quality. While all green fruit is ripened by artificial heat, there is no occasion to ripen oranges in this way at this season of the year. As the November crop of tree ripened before the middle of December, and the fruit now on the market is choice. Bananas seem to stand the sweating process, why should it injure oranges?

TRACK LABORER IS KILLED AND SECOND IS SERIOUSLY HURT

John Swischer of Milton Junction and Italian Companion Struck in St. Paul Yards by Fast Train.

John Swischer of Milton Junction and his companion, John Paulis, an Italian, both St. Paul track laborers, were struck by the Chicago and Madison passenger train, No. 131, in the local yards at 10:35 this morning. Both men were badly injured and Swischer died of his wounds at the Mercy hospital shortly after one o'clock. Paulis' condition is very serious.

The men started to cross the track carrying a tie on their shoulders and failed to see the approaching train as it came around the curve near the sand house.

Paulis had one leg cut off and was seriously injured about the head. Swischer suffered a concussion of the head and failed to recover consciousness. He leaves a family.

Dr. J. F. Pember, who was called to attend the men, this afternoon stated that the injuries to Paulis' right leg made it necessary to amputate the limb between the knee and the ankle. The head and scalp were also lacerated.

The men, it is said, stepped out of the way of a switch engine, and in front of the passenger train.

It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters have no equal. Try them. SECOND-HAND SCHOOLBOOK IS CARRIER OF DISEASE.

Campaign to Bring it Under Ban With Common Drinking Cup and Community Towel.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 26.—The common drinking cup and community towel having been banished from public buildings and conveyances in Wisconsin, agitation is now being directed against the second-hand schoolbook. It is declared that a book is one of the most effective carriers of disease and that it cannot be entirely disinfected. The Arizona plan is advocated for Wisconsin. Free textbooks are furnished, and when the child has completed it the book becomes his property.

Another method advocated is prohibition of the importation into any community of second-hand books.

Of the 20,000,000 school children in this country, about 5 percent or 1,000,000 have tubercular disease of the lungs, medical authorities say.

A Carfare

WHEN Phoebe and Jean and Gertrude were shown into the library, Alice was seated by the table, looking rather sentimentally at a large bunch of violets which had been given the place of honor there.

"Aren't they exquisite," exclaimed Joan, sniffing them.

"He must think a lot of you," teased Phoebe.

Alice blushed and then she laughed. "The fact of the matter is," she said, "I don't know him."

"Well!" exclaimed the three in unison.

"You!" went on Gertrude, "the proper, conventional member of the quartet, receiving flowers from a stranger! Do tell us about it."

"I got in an awful scrape, the other day," exclaimed Alice.

"And he rescued you. This is positively thrilling," said Phoebe.

"It wasn't anything so romantic. It was horrid and frightfully embarrassing. When I came out of Sloan's, and went to get on a car—it was raining in bucketfuls, too—I found I hadn't a cent. I had spent the very last coin I had."

The others nodded sympathetically. "I'm absolutely penniless," said Gertrude, "and going on credit."

"That I had no credit!" exclaimed Alice. "There wasn't a soul in that part of town I knew. I couldn't telephone, for I had no money. I was too dead tired to walk home, besides it was raining in torrents. So I just made up my mind to ask some one to loan me a nickel."

"Alice!"

Alice nodded. "Yes, really. I was just that desperate. So I singled out a nice, old, gray-whiskered man in the crowd on the corner, and told him my predicament, and asked him to loan me a carfare, and said I would return it; and I told him my name and where I lived. And what do you think he did? He just looked at me, and smiled cynically, and said he hadn't anything to spare."

"Alice!"

"Yes he did. I never felt so awful in my life. My face got red as a beet. I was just ready to tell him what I thought of him and to walk home if I dropped dead on the way, when a man who was standing next to him, said, 'Permit me, and before I knew what was happening, he had dropped a nickel into my hand. I got redder, and I stammered and said would he give me his name so I could return it, and I told him who I was and where I lived, so he'd know I wasn't a beggar. But he just laughed and said not to bother about it, that it was a pleasure; and then before I could say anything more, he hopped on a car and was gone. And look!'" she drew a card from the table drawer. On it was "John Hopkins," and pencilled beneath the name, "I hope you reached home safely." Now isn't it jolly of him? And isn't it tantalizing? I would give anything to know where he lives. I would return the nickel, just for fun."

"John Hopkins," exclaimed Phoebe. "I know John Hopkins. He's here for the Christmas holidays, visiting a cousin."

"Give me his address, quick," exclaimed Alice, snatching a pencil from the table. "Won't he be surprised when he gets that nickel? And don't you ever tell him Phoebe, how I found him out."

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON THROWING AWAY.

A FRIEND of mine who was about to move was sorting over a drawerful of accumulated "trunk"—I can think of no other equally expressive word—and was throwing more than half of it into the waste basket. "It makes me feel dreadfully to throw all these things away," she said.

"Why?" I asked. "Do you think you'll ever need them again?"

"Oh no," she said, "only it seems terrible to throw them away after I've kept them so many years, given them valuable houserom and sorted and tidied them up every year. The time and space I've given them sort of makes them seem valuable, though I never got any good out of them."

Isn't that a suggestive statement?

How many of us have closets and bureau drawers and chests and garrets filled with "trunk" whose only value is the time it has eaten up and the valuable houserom it has filled.

Do you know how to throw things away?

There are a great many people in the world who never master this art. Accumulation is a mania with them. It seems to hurt them to destroy, or give away, or otherwise get rid of any article no matter how remote is the chance of their ever having any use for it.

The wise person who understands the art of elimination as well as that of accumulation, asks of each object that is taking his time and space, "Is it likely that I shall ever use this again?" And if he thinks it is, he keeps it. He knows that the annoyance it will cause him to have a burden of unusual objects in his home is greater than the annoyance he will feel from having gotten rid of one or two things that he might have used again.

The unwise man with whom accumulation is a mania asks, "Is it possible under any combination of circumstances that I would ever want this again?" and accumulates accordingly.

I once had an elderly relative who acted on this principle. Her mother had been a dressmaker and she actually insisted on keeping all the paper patterns from which her mother had cut gowns thirty years ago. "Oh they might be useful sometime," she would insist vaguely but obstinately when she was urged to get rid of this clutter and make the house more habitable. She never used them and, of course, they were thrown pell-mell into the fire along with several cartloads of similar stuff by her heirs.

Learn to throw away.

The ability to accumulate is valuable, but the ability to choose and eliminate is equally so.

There is scarcely one of us who does not possess too much, who does not need to make a raid upon his or her house about once in so often, and sternly get rid of those articles which are hindering rather than serving.

is unquestioned and it should have an exalted place among the necessary utensils for the household.

The fact that there is no necessity for lighting the lamp until the last moment, and that it can be extinguished as soon as the materials are cooked is a great factor in its favor and makes alcohol really a cheap fuel. The left-overs of beef, mutton, chicken or veal may be converted in a few minutes into most dainty sorts of dishes. For the Sunday night supper or evening entertainment it is a joy, as this can be a general good-time gathering, and turns may be taken, each one trying their culinary skill.

If the first preparations are carefully made, each dish will be quickly and easily cooked. As recipes call for butter in tablespoonfuls, which really mean an ounce, cut the butter in squares of one ounce and drop these into ice water for a moment and with your butter paddles mold. The French mold now sold here makes a shell-like shape. Fill a small bowl with flour, another with salt; have a tray holding all the necessary materials; have lemon juice, if you use it, squeezed and in a little pitcher. Have plenty of seasoning, red and white pepper, kitchen bouquet, etc., if they are to be made-over dishes.

My one aim today is to give you a more intimate knowledge of its capabilities and the former idea if you have it, of its being a fad, will soon vanish. In the one item of domestic economy—made-over dishes, its value

Have all this done, if possible, in advance of your evening spread, or if it is quickly gotten up, you will all the better know how to conveniently get your materials together. Always place the chafing dish on a tray to avoid accident from overflow of alcohol.

The chafing dish is placed on the table before host or hostess, as occasion may require, or frequently one in front of each. Put all the materials which must be measured with a spoon on the right. Also butter with a butter pick, all seasonings, as milk, stock, etc., on the left in little pitchers. The utensils necessary, one teaspoon, tablespoon, a long chafing dish spoon and serving spoon. Perfect arrangement saves much time and confusion. See that the lamp is filled and matches at hand before being seated. If the butter is to be melted, put it in the chafing dish before you add the flour. Always use kitchen bouquet for browning; this saves time and makes a more palatable and attractive sauce. The hot water pan keeps the food hot.

Where the chafing dish is used for Sunday night suppers, cold meats may be served and the chafing dish used for heating peas, making creamed potatoes or heating over cooked vegetables, cooking omelets and scrambled eggs. Cold chicken or turkey may be used for creamed dishes, seasoned with mushrooms or oysters, broiled or perfectly plain with peas. Mutton in tomato sauce. Beef in brown sauce. Fried beef may be plain with cream or into a fricassee and even with these few materials a dozen dishes may be arranged. Where Welsh rabbit, lobsters or crabs are served, avoid a heavy sweet at the end.

MENU.

Grainfruit, deviled oysters, beef à la maitre d'hôtel, mayonnaise of celery, wafers, cheese, coffee, rolls.

Welsh Rarebit.

Materials—American cheese (yellow) on pound; butter one tablespoonful; catsup, one tablespoonful; ale or beer, one-half cup; salt, one-half teaspoonful; horse radish, one teaspoonful; clove of garlic, one; cayenne pepper, Worcestershire sauce.

Utensils—Chafing dish, grater, tablespoon, teaspoon.

Directions—Grate the cheese or cut it very fine. Rub the pan with the butter. Mix all the seasonings with the cheese. Heat the beer and, when boiling hot, add the cheese mixture and stir rapidly and constantly until smooth and creamy. Beat very hard at the last and serve at once on squares of toast.

Be very sure the plates are very hot, also the toast, and ready the instant the rarebit is done. The success of this depends largely upon the cheese. Good English dairy cheese makes a good rarebit. Do not cook after the cheese is well melted, as it is apt to separate. A beaten yolk or two or egg added at the last, some think, is an improvement.

The KITCHEN CABINET

CLEANLINESS is a fine life preserver—cleanliness within as well as without. For as neatness and proper care of the person, sanitation of the home and the purity of the water supplies tend to physical health, so do a pure heart and a clean life.

HOLIDAY LEFT-OVERS.

Break the bones of the turkey or duck and cover with cold water, bring to the boiling point and simmer for three or four hours. A stalk of celery or a few of the coarse tops, a bit of onion may be added for flavoring, then strain and add a cup of cooked and mashed chestnuts; season and serve. If one desires to make the flavor go farther or serve more, a pint of milk may be added and a binding of a tablespoonful of flour and butter cooked together. Pour this over two well beaten eggs, and a soup will result fit for any guest.

A few cranberries, sliced across and mixed with finely shredded celery, served with French dressing on lettuce leaves, is a new salad and one that can be prepared from bits.

The steamed plum pudding that is left over can be reheated and served with a different sauce, thus making an entire change in the pudding.

Bits of cheese, if put through the meat grinder, can be used for so many nice dishes. Cheese toast, a milk toast served with grated cheese in it, cheese crackers—cheese, pepper and a bit of tabasco spread on crackers and browned in the oven. Mashed potato may be reheated in a double boiler with the addition of a little milk or cream, and be as good as when it was first served.

Turkey salad is made just as one does chicken salad, and is equally as good.

Spanish Salad—Cut into dice three slices of stale bread. Add an equal quantity of cold potato, three tomatoes, sliced and one onion chopped fine. Rub the salad bowl with the cut side of a clove of garlic, put in the salad and pour over plenty of French dressing.

Bits of left-over asparagus, with a little chopped pimiento and a cooked salad dressing, is a simple and tasty salad.

HEART and HOME
PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give a little advice to one of your girls.

(1)—I asked a boy to my sorority dance. He has never called or taken me out. We go to the same school and are good friends. Should I ask him to an initiation to my house? He is pledged to a frat and his brother will come.

(2)—I am 16. Am I old enough to write to a boy who is away at school?

(3) What would you suggest for "eats" at an initiation? Something new.

(4)—One of my brother's frat brothers goes to the same school that I do. I meet him in the hall after every study. He flirts with me and has told his mother I have beautiful eyes. Should I speak to him or wait till we are introduced? Our mothers are good friends and we go to the same church.

(5)—I am crazy about the "cheerleader" of our football team? How can I get to know him? (6)—Is it improper to be a flirt?

BEAUTIFUL EYES.

(1)—The boy perhaps doesn't know "manners." He certainly ought to have paid his party call. Ask your brother whether he thinks the boy should be invited or not. (2)—Yes, if you write merely friendly letters and your mother knows of the correspondence. (3)—Suppose you serve things out of place—such as pie with pickles, icecream with oyster patties, chocolate with grapes, etc. Give a fork for the icecream, a knife for the chocolate, spoons for pie, etc. It would be fun.

(4)—If you know the boy is all right it would not be amiss to recognize him; but don't encourage flirting, my dear. Girls are too precious to make themselves cheap in that way. (5)—Probably your brother or one of the boys at school are acquainted with him. Get one of them to introduce him to you. (6)—I answered that question in No. 4.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a beautiful young girl of 17 and in love with a young man of 24. He once professed to love me, but has acted indifferent lately. I feel that I cannot live without him and if I do not regain his love I will do something desperate. What would you advise me to do? Answer to save a life. (2)—Do you approve of tulip salve and where can you get some?

DISCOURAGED.

(1)—What would I do? I would stop being silly, my dear. You are so young that you don't know how foolish your letter sounds. This young man has probably grown tired of just that sort of thing. Get another beau and use common sense in your treatment of him. (2)—I don't know anything about it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow by death. My family consists of four daughters and self. Daughters have all been staying in town and coming home Saturdays. I have a nice country home and am obliged to employ more or less hired help, doing the cooking myself.

Recently I employed a young widow of good character, with a small child, to keep house for me, and brought my youngest child, a girl of 11, home. I have a married daughter who is everlastingly "throwing it into me," saying I should not have done it, as the people are talking about me.

WORRIED.

People will talk no matter what you do. You ought to have a decent home to live in and so long as you keep one of your daughters with you there should be no objection to your hiring a housekeeper whether she is young or old.

HOUSEHOLD
HINTS

Two Good Cakes.

Eggsless and Milkless Fruit Cake—One and one-half cups brown sugar, two-thirds cup butter (or butter and lard mixed), 1-1/2 cups hot apple sauce, two teaspoons baking soda stirred in apple sauce, two-thirds teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, two cups raisins, three cups flour. Add nuts if desired.

Chocolate Fudge Cake—Try this Christmas goodie; it is very fine: One-fourth cup butter melted, one cup granulated sugar, three squares unsweetened chocolate, two eggs well beaten, one-half cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup chopped nut meats. (Use level measurements throughout.)

Put ingredients together in order mentioned and beat very thoroughly before adding chopped nut meats. Spread about three-fourths inch deep on a shallow pan, which has been greased with butter. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Cut into inch squares while warm.

Candies.

Orange Taffy—Two cups sugar, juice one orange; boil till it hardens in water, then pull it.

This is a very wholesome candy and can be made into candy canes for Christmas.

Turkish Mint Paste—Soak three tablespoons granulated gelatin in half cup of water for 20 minutes. Put two cups sugar in saucepan with half cup cold water and bring to boiling point, add the gelatin and let simmer 20 minutes.

Remove from fire, add two tablespoons lemon juice, four tablespoons ing. use a baking powder can. This is much quicker than using a knife, takes a few seconds, chops them real pan (first rinsed in cold water), to one inch thickness. Cool, remove to board, cut in cubes and roll in confectioner's sugar.

Fig Cream—Three cups sugar, one cup cream, half cup corn sirup, half pound figs, one tablespoon lemon juice.

Cook sugar, cream and sirup, to a soft ball test (firm and waxy), cool mixture, stir and when it thickens add figs, cut fine, and add lemon juice. When too thick to pour, spread on buttered pan and cut into squares before it is cold.

Things Worth Knowing.

To Strengthen Doll's Head—Remove head from body and fill with plaster of paris mixed with water to a smooth paste. Stand aside with shoulders up until perfectly dry, then fasten back to the body. Of course, a doll that goes to sleep cannot be treated in this way, and one that has an open mouth and teeth will require a strip of paper pasted on inside before pouring in paste.

The white meat on the Christmas turkey or chicken will not be dry and tasteless if fowl is roasted with the breast down. Turn on its back and bake 15 minutes at the last, to brown.

That is the way I cook my roast fowls. When dampening table linen, I dip one-half of tablecloth or napkins in water and wring out as dry as possible. Then I roll up and let lie until the next day, when I iron with very hot irons. The result is most satisfactory, as every wrinkle is removed.

To prepare cold potatoes for frying, use a baking powder can. This is much quicker than using a knife, takes a few seconds, chops them real COST o' living? Benefit your pocketbook and your health by substituting wholesome and economical Rona Dutch cocoa for harmful and expensive coffee.

A pound of good coffee costs 35 cents. At best it will make only 30 cups. A big can of Rona cocoa costs 25 cents. And it will make 34 cups of delicious cocoa.

HEALTH PROBLEM "IN A NUTSHELL."

Auto-intoxication, self-poisoning by the absorption from the alimentary canal into the blood stream of the waste products of indigestion, due to excess of food, improperly eaten, improperly combined; insufficient light, air, water, exercise, food and bad mental states which also poison the blood directly—in fasting judiciously to remove the cause, improving mental conditions by stimulating hope and good cheer, finding cause for abiding faith and for the charity that "thinketh no evil," and when these fail, that is, when there is a failure to apply them, Matchnikoff's glass of buttermilk, the natural physical antidote; this is the secret of sickness and cure in a nutshell. The most advanced physician of today can do little more than to determine the wisest application of these principles, including occasional physical adjustment by surgery or osteopathy, which implies a life-long study of the dual-unitary organization of mind and body.

Sensitive Plant Life.

The craving of plants and trees for water has sometimes led them to terrible extremes. A poplar has been known to burrow beneath a wall, under a road, and down a well—all in search of water, and a pertinacious turnip which got the tip of its root into the crack in a field drain, went on and on until it was six feet long in the drain. So sensitive is the tip of the root on the water question that Darwin declared it must have a brain in it.

Method of Bleaching Ivory. To bleach ivory ornaments or piano keys the following method works well. The ornaments are first washed or "soaked," if possible, in a bath of unslaked lime, which has in it a few ounces of bran and water. This should make a pasty solution if properly mixed, and will bleach the ivory which is discolored or stained. It should be rubbed off with a cloth and the ivory dried in magnesia powder. After a few minutes a few strokes with a cloth gives the ivory a brilliant polish.

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Shake it, teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualacal and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

A COLLAR is the top story of a shirt, and can be removed without dislocating anything but the Adam's apple. They are not worn for pleasure, but in order to conceal the obtrusive mole and other debris. Some men never wear collars at all except to hide the footprints of the safety razor or touch somebody for two bits.

The heathen children of other lands do not have to bother with the collar in any form. The South Sea Islander, for instance, never has to tuck a three-inch collar with his mouth twisted over back of his left ear, and then crawl under an iron bed with a box of safety matches. In search of a bone collar button. The unlettered Hottentot can go around all day in the burning rays of the sun without the fear that his collar will give way at the knees and fall inward on both sides. The Hottentot is a happy person, free from clothes and carling care, and yet we are spending large sums annually in the attempt to introduce him in the wing collar and the treacherous suspender button.

Nearly all men keep their collars in an ornamental box, which is paved over several times a week in the effort to locate the 1512 models. Just as soon as a man discovers a collar which can be worn without starting an incipient riot among the office force, he will find that some eager menial in the steam laundry has stepped upon it with a hot iron and rendered it unfit for the company of decent people. He then puts on a design four years old and covers it up with a Jersey sweater.

Collars are a great drawback to husky-voiced speakers who use a full outfit of throat muscles in their work and clutch convulsively at the neck-band just prior to vaulting at high G. They also get in the way of people who eat on the dead run, causing them to be removed before each meal and draped tastefully over a rocking chair.

CHAPTER IV.

The Attack.
Slightly more than sixty miles, as the route ran, stretched between old Fort Dodge and the ford crossing the Arkansas leading down to the Cimarron; another sixty miles distant, across a desert of alkali and sand, lay Devere. The main Santa Fe trail, broad and deeply rutted by the innumerable wheels of early spring caravans, followed the general course of the river, occasionally touching the higher level plains, but mostly keeping close beneath the protection of the northern bluffs, or else skirting the edge of the water. Night or day the route was easily followed, and, in other years, the traveler was seldom for long out of sight of tolling wagons. Now scarcely a wheel turned in all that lonely distance.

The west-bound stage left the station at Deer Creek at four o'clock in the afternoon with no intimation of danger ahead. Its occupants had eaten dinner in company with those of the east-bound coach, eighteen miles down the river at Canon Bluff, and the in-coming driver had reported an open road, and no unusual trouble. No Indian signs had been observed, not even signal fires during the night, and the conductor, who had come straight from Santa Fe, reported that troops from Fort Union had driven the only known bunch of raiders back from the neighborhood of the trail, and had them already safely corralled in the mountains. This report, seemingly authentic and official, served to relax the nerves, and the west-bound driver sang to himself as he guided the four horses forward, while the conductor, a sawed-off gun planted between his knees, nodded drowsily. Inside there were but three passengers, jerking back and forth, as the wheels struck the deep ruts of the trail, occasionally exchanging a word or two, but usually staring gloomily forth at the monotonous scene. Miss McDonald and Moylan occupied the back seat, some baggage wedged tightly between to keep them more secure on the slippery cushion, while facing them, and clinging to his support with both hands, was a pock-marked Mexican, with rather villainous face and ornate dress, and excessively polite manners. He had joined the little party at sight of Miss Molly's face when she unveiled, although his small knowledge of English prevented any extended effort at conversation. Moylan, however, after careful scrutiny, engaged him shortly in Spanish, and later explained to the girl, in low tones, that the man was a Santa Fe gambler known as Gonzales, with a reputation to be hinted at but not openly discussed.

They were some six miles to the west of Deer Creek, the horses still moving with spirit, the driver's foot on the brake, when the stage took a sudden plunge down a sloping bank where the valley perceptibly narrowed. To the left, beyond a flat expanse of brown, sun-scorched grass, flowed the widely-spreading waters of the Arkansas, barely covering the treacherous sandy bottom, and from the other side came the more distant gleam of alkali plains; to the right arose the bluffs, here both steep and rugged, completely shutting off the view, barren of vegetation except for a few scattered patches of grass. Suddenly a man rode out of a rift in the bank, directly in front, and held up his hand. Surprised, startled, the driver instantly clamped on his brake, and brought his horses to a quick stop; the conductor, nearly flung from his seat, yanked his gun forward.

"None of that now," called out the man in saddle quickly, both hands up-lifted to show their emptiness. "This is no hold-up. I've got news."

He spurred his pony forward slowly, the animal seemingly barely able to move, and swung out of the saddle beside the front wheel, staggering a bit as though his limbs were cramped as his feet felt the ground.

"Look like they had much of a fight at the Crossing?" he asked.

"Not much; more like a night raid; two whites killed, and scalped. The third man either was taken away, or his body got burnt in the building. Horses all gone."

"What tribe?"

"Arapahoes, from the way they scalped; that's what made it so serious—if those Northern Indians have broken loose there is going to be war this time for sure."

The men on the box looked at each other questioningly.

"I don't see no use tryin' to go on, Jake, do you?" asked the driver soberly. "Even if we do go through, there ain't no hosses to be had."

"The other shock his head, rubbing his gun-stock."

"Most likely those same red devils are layin' for us now somewhere between yere an' Low Water; what the trail runs in between them two big rocks, most probable," he concluded. "Not havin' no har' to lose, I'm fer goin' back."

With an oath of relief, the driver released his brake and skillfully swung the leaders around, the coach groaning as it took the sharp turn. The man on the ground caught a swiftly passing glimpse of the young woman's face within, and strode hurriedly forward as the coach started.

"Hold on there, pardner," he commanded sternly. "This poor bronc won't travel another mile. There's plenty of room for me inside, and I'll turn the tired devil loose. Hold on, I say!"

The driver once again slapped on the brake, growling and reluctant, his anxious eyes searching the trail in both directions. Hamlin quietly uncinched his saddle, flinging it to the coach roof; the bridle followed, and then, with a slap on the haunch of the released animal, he strode to the stage door, thrust his Henry rifle within, and took the vacant seat beside Gonzales. With a sudden crack of the driver's whip the four horses leaped forward, and the coach careened on the slope of the trail, causing the passengers to clutch wildly to keep from being precipitated into a mass on the floor. As the traces straightened, Miss Molly, clinging desperately to a strap, caught her first fair glance at the newcomer. His hat was tilted back, the light revealing lines of weariness and a coating of the gray, powdery dust of the alkali desert, but beneath it appeared the brown, sun-scorched skin, while the gray eyes looking straight at her, were resolute and smiling. His rough shirt, open at the throat, might have been the product of any sutler's counter; he wore no jacket, and the broad yellow stripe down the leg of the faded blue trousers alone proclaimed him a soldier. He smiled across at her, and she lowered her eyes, while his glance wandered on toward the others.

"Don't seem to be very crowded to-day," he began, genially addressing Moylan. "Not an extremely popular route at present, I reckon. Mining, pardner?"

"No; post-trader at Fort Marcy."

"Oh, that's it," his eyebrows lifting slightly. "This Indian business is a bad job for you then." His eyes fell on his seatmate. "Well, if this isn't little Gonzales!—You've got a good ways from home."

"Si, senor!" returned the Mexican brokenly. "I tink I not remem."

"No, I reckon not. I'm not one of your class; cards and I never did agree. I shot up your game once down at Union; night Hassinger was killed. Remember now, don't you?"

"Si, senor," spreading his hands. "It was mos' unfortunate."

"Would have been more so, if the boys had got hold of you—Saint Anne! but that fellow on the box is driving some."

The thud of the horses' feet under the lash, coupled with the reckless lurching of the coach, ended all further attempt at conversation, and the four passengers held on grimly, and stared out of the windows, as if expecting every instant that some accident would hurl them headlong. The frightened driver was apparently springing neither whip nor tongue, the galloping teams jerking the stage after them in a mad race up the trail. Hamlin thrust his head out of the nearest window, but a sudden lurch why the wheelers had plunged forward in that mad run-away race—between the bluffs and the river a swarm of Indians were lashing their ponies, spreading out like the sticks of a fan.

hurled him back, the coach taking a sharp curve on two wheels, and coming down level once again with a bump which brought the whole four together. The little Mexican started to scream out a Spanish oath, but Hamlin gripped his throat before it was half uttered, while Moylan pressed the girl back into her seat, bracing himself to hold her firm.

"What the devil—" he began angrily, and then the careening coach stopped as suddenly as though it had struck the bank, again tearing loose their handhold on the seats and flinging them headlong. They heard the creaking clump of the brakes, the dancing of frightened horses, a perfect volley of oaths, the crunch of feet as men leaped from the top to the ground; then, all at once, the stage lurched forward, swerving sharply to the left, and struck out across the fat directly toward the bluff.

Hamlin struggled to the nearest window, and, grasping the sill to hold himself upright, leaned out. He caught a momentary glimpse of two men riding swiftly up the trail; the box above was empty, the wheelers alone remained in harness, and they were running uncontrolled.

"By God!" he muttered. "Those two damn cowards have cut loose and left us!"

Even as the unrestrained words leaped from his lips he realized the only hope—the reins still dangled, caught securely in the brake lever. Inch by inch, foot by foot, he wiggled out; Moylan, comprehending, caught his legs, holding him steady against the mad pitching. His fingers gripped the iron top rail, and, exerting all his strength, he slowly pulled his body up, until he fell forward into the driver's seat. Swift as he had been, the action was not quickly enough conceived to avert disaster. He had the reins in his grip when the swinging pole struck the steep side of the bluff, snapping off with a sharp crack, and flinging down the frightened animals, the wheels crashing against them, as the coach came to a sudden halt. Hamlin hung on grimly, flung forward to the footbrake by the force of the shock, his body bruised and aching. One horse lay motionless, head under, apparently instantly killed; his mate struggled to his feet, tore frantically loose from the traces, and went flying madly down the slope, the broken harness dangling at his heels. The Sergeant sat up and stared about, sweeping the blood from a slight gash out of his eyes. Then he came to himself with a gasp—understanding instantly what it all meant, why those men had cut loose the horses and ridden away.

Why the wheelers had plunged forward in that mad run-away race—between the bluffs and the river a swarm of Indians were lashing their ponies, spreading out like the sticks of a fan.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Dec. 26, 1872.—The Railroad Accident: The railroad accident referred to on Tuesday was not disastrous as was first supposed. Conductor Milmine was slightly injured on the head, and brakeman Hilt was burned and bruised, but not seriously. No other casualties occurred, the reported injury to Fireman Wilcox being a canard. A broken rail was the cause of the wreck, derailing two trains. Fire at Milton Junction: On Tuesday night at eight o'clock fire was discovered in one of the central rooms of the upper story of the Morgan House at Milton Junction, near a chimney. The rapid spread of the flames after their presence became known rendered it impossible to stay their progress and after the first futile efforts were spent the hope of saving the hotel was abandoned and all present labored energetically to rescue the movable property within the building and prevent the spread of the fire to adjoining structures. The villagers rallied quickly when the alarm was given and there were plenty of willing hands to take part in the work. Nearly all of the furniture of the hotel was removed and the adjoining wooden buildings were saved, with the exception of an ice house and wood shed, both small structures. The hotel burned to ashes. Milton Junction being unsupplied with any means for extinguishing fires, little could be done towards subduing the flames and the scarcity of water would have rendered engines almost useless had any gone to the rescue. During the progress of the fire Frank Daggett was partially suffocated in one of the rooms, but was discovered in time to save his life. One of the most distressing circumstances of the fire was the removal of William Morgan's daughter. She was bedridden from a severe illness and at the time of the fire was almost at the point of death. Yesterday she was very low, with scarcely a possibility of her recovery.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

All numbered is my reason, and I'm tired of this season of good things to eat. I'm weary of turkey, I've soured upon goose, my insides are jerky, my wish-bone is loose. I've gorged upon pudding until I would die. I'm dreading, eluding all manner of pie. Although I'm a dandy at punishing grub, I'm tired of the candy that comes by the tub; the oysters, the dressing, the ice cream and cake, all are dis-tressing, and give me an ache. Rich grub sends a shiver INGRATITUDE through surfeited mon; I'm longing for liver and onions again. My system is achin', and won't be denied for fried eggs and bacon and spuds on the side. 'Twould make my soul chirrup to ill up once more on buckwheat and strip and sauerkraut galore, but that would be treason, of style an abuse; at this bughouse season it's turkey and goose. It's turkey that's roasted, and goose that is baked, and things that are toasted, and things that are baked; it's oysters and gravy and stuffing and jam, and spaghetti wavy, with which we must cram. My nerves all a-quiver. I sit in my den, and long for plain liver and onions again!

Paradoxical Results.
"His business methods are so loose."
"I suppose that is why he finds money tight."

December 26

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Some time devoted to the study of modern methods of keeping well will be of great benefit to you and to those dear to you. A journey or change is indicated, which will not entirely please you, and other annoyances are in store for you.

Those born today will be of high intelligence but inclined to become too enthusiastic on subjects which interest them, and to sink their own interest in the turbulence of some cause. Education along unprejudiced lines will save many of these children from wasting their lives on useless sects and causes.

WEST MAGNOLIA

Miss Leta Walton and pupils enjoyed a Christmas box and gave a nice program Saturday afternoon.

His Reasoning.
"Why did the organist play the wedding march so fast that the bride and groom had almost to dance up the aisle?"
"I suppose he thought that marriage was something of a two-step."

MILTON JUNCTION

Relic of Interest to Scotsmen.
A razor which belonged to "Bobble" Burns was sold in London the other day. It had a bone handle bearing silver plates giving its pedigree—"The last razor that Robert Burns ever shaved with." Each successive owner since it was presented by Robert Burns, Jr., to William Dunbar, in 1839, has added a plate indicating the purchase.

What is Not Good.
It is only because they are unused to the taste of what is excellent that the generality of people take delight in silly or insipid things.—Goethe.

Croupy Coughs and Wheezy Colds.
The quickest simplest way to rid the children of dangerous croupy coughs and wheezy stuffy colds is to give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It gives almost instant relief and stops a cough promptly. It soothes and heals. Contains no opiates. H. L. Blomquist, Badger, Wis., says: "My wife considers Foley's Honey and Tar Compound the best cough cure and it gives the best results." Badger Drug Co.

Foils A Foul Plot.
When a shameful plot exists between liver and bowels to cause distress by refusing to act, take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and end such abuse of your system. They gently compel right action of stomach, liver and bowels, and restore your health and all good feelings. 25c at People's Drug Co.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

(Synopsis of preceding chapters: "Billy" Braveboy, clubman, athlete, champion cigarette consumer of Greater New York and sole heir of six billion dollars, impelled by a sudden curiosity to see how the other half lives, strolls off of Fifth Avenue. Before he is aware of his danger he finds himself on Mot street, the Bowery, Lower East Side. Suddenly there is a revolver shot overhead, followed by another underfoot, followed by two more on each side, followed by the beautiful screams of a beautiful girl. Realizing that he has penetrated into the haunts of the gunmen, several of whom are unusually blood-thirsty owing to a recent confinement of several weeks in the Tombs, Braveboy prepares to flee, when again the beautiful scream of a beautiful girl rends the powerful checked air. Shifting an eye into insensibility, Braveboy rushes into the nearest house. There, stretched out on a sofa, with a piano on her feet and a chitonion on her head, lies the beautiful girl, still screaming, beautifully, for, obviously, she is uncomfortable. At second glances Braveboy sees thirty gunmen huddled in the rear of the little room with leveled revolvers. At third glance he sees that the revolvers are leveled at him.)

CHAPTER 292 C. O. D. THE TEST.

At that moment one of the gunmen, evidently the leader of the gang, spoke:

"Who are you?" he cried hoarsely. A bloodstained knife clattered to the floor from his teeth as he opened them.

"I'm the guy that put the tea in society," replied Braveboy in a low, even voice.

"There were hisses and a crash or two and then Braveboy was left alone with the girl."
